

Public Access user guide for Building Control

Over the next few months Public Access will be improved to include the ability to search for Building Control Applications. We are currently working with our software suppliers to bring this to you.

You will be able to monitor the progress of an application, view a list of applications received and decided each week, and view details of historic applications.

Electronic documents relating to Building Control applications will not be available as these are currently not classed as records open for public inspection. We will, however, keep this under review in line with government guidance.

Frequently Asked Question (FAQ)

1. Why is there a link to a Public Access user guide for Building Control when this is not yet available?

The Public Access web pages are developed by a third-party company and any changes to the design is subject to a cost. Therefore we have included links to all the user guides now.

Contact us

Please email applicationsupport@cambridge.gov.uk if you have any further questions regarding this service.